

SEYMOUR DAILY REPUBLICAN

VOLUME XXXIII NO. 60

SEYMOUR, INDIANA, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1914.

PRICE TWO CENTS

MUCH INTEREST IN CONCRETE ROADS

Those in Favor of the Petitions Regret the Action Taken by the City Council.

SEE BENEFIT TO COMMUNITY

Declare That Improvements Will Not Result in Higher Tax Rate Than at Present Time.

Good roads advocates who are interested in the plan to improve about twelve miles of highways in Jackson township with concrete regret the action taken by the city council on the resolution and declare that as the body has no authority over such work the proper course would have been to adopt the resolutions so there would be no delay if the improvement is ordered. Those who favor the work, and the number is by no means small, say that the action of the council may invalidate the petitions and they will be held up until the error can be rectified.

The good road advocates assert that there will always be opposition to an improvement of this character. They point to the many objections filed against the construction of the gravel roads in this county and say that now there would be very few people who would vote to build a dirt or clay road. They contend that the concrete roads are just as far in advance of the gravel roads as the gravel roads were in advance of the dirt roads.

The objection that the cost would fall upon the taxpayers of this county is answered by the assertion that the people of Jackson county would get the most benefit of the new roads and residents in other townships have the same privilege of filing similar petitions. It is also claimed that as long as the present road repair laws are in force the largest and most wealthy townships will pay the greatest part of the money for this work.

Those in favor of the new roads say that the taxes will not be increased from what they are this year as the forty cents added for bridge repairs will be deducted next year. This additional amount was added to the taxes this year so the total cost of the new bridges constructed would be paid in one year. It is said that the improvement of the roads would not cost to exceed $175,000 and probably the expense would be less. The exact figures have not been completed and cannot be given out until the bids are received.

It is further claimed by those favorable to the new roads that the cost will be more than off set by the increased valuation of land as good roads always enhance the land values. It is said that the roads will be extended further as residents of other communities are interested in the improvement and are anxious to build similar highways in their townships. In a short time, it is believed, the concrete highways would be extended to Columbus and Brownstown.

Some opposition has arisen because of the width of the proposed roads. Highways are usually from eighteen to twenty-one feet wide but the petitions ask that some of the roads be built sixteen feet wide. It is claimed that on one side of the concrete roadway will be a gravel road which could be used if necessary. It is pointed out by others that the road should be wider than called for in the petitions and they base their objection upon this ground.

The proposed new roads have aroused greater interest throughout the township than any improvement that has been proposed for many years. The residents generally are anxious for better highways but desire that they be built at the least possible expense. Those supporting the petitions argue that any improvement will cost money and would be fought by some until such work is completed. It is proposed to employ a road expert to superintend the work and see that the materials are properly mixed and the roads constructed in the best manner.

MERCURY SLIPPED DOWN WAY BELOW ZERO POINT

Seven Degrees Below Zero This Morning Established New Record For the Winter.

The 1914 model of government thermometers are progressive little instruments and endeavor to better their record each day. In striving to establish a new cold mark the local thermometer almost overexerted itself, going down to seven degrees below zero this morning. The low temperature crept up stealthily and the morning was characterized by the "still cold." This is four degrees lower than the previous record which was reported Tuesday.

The railroads and traction lines have practically recovered from the snow storms and the trains and cars are being operated on the usual schedule. Some of the trains are late but it is expected that they will make their usual running time tomorrow.

The street department is preparing for the thaw which is anticipated tomorrow. The drifts of snow which were piled around the openings of the sewers are being removed so the melting snow will find its way to the sewer. Warmer weather is predicted for Thursday although the weather man says another fall of snow would not be surprising.

$2,000 BOND OF THE 1907 REFUNDING SERIES LIFTED

City of Seymour Now Has Bonded Indebtedness of $35,000—Interest of Other Series Paid.

City Treasurer J. Newt. Gibson, today paid off $2,000 of the 1907 refunding bond issue. In anticipation of the payment the city council voted to appropriate the necessary money from the general fund to the special fund. At the same time the interest due on all the bonds was also settled. The total interest amounted to $245.

The payment of this $2,000 bond leaves the City of Seymour with a total bonded indebtedness of $35,000. The bonded limit of the city is about $60,000. The outstanding bonds are as follows: 1907 refunding, $12,000; City Building, $15,000; Street intersection bonds, $8,000.

DEAF MAN COULD HEAR CHIEF SPEAK

Kentuckian Had Also Lost His Voice But Was Able to Plead for His Release.

TRIO OPERATED GAME HERE

Succeeded in Collecting Several Dollars Before Rounded Up and Chased Away.

Chief of Police McCord has done a number of commendable things since he became the head of the police department but his most marvelous accomplishment was witnessed today when he made the deaf hear and the dumb speak. Whether this miraculous act will make him famous is yet to be known but he was given the assurance by one man, at least, that hereafter he would make proper use of his tongue and ears.

This morning Chief McCord heard that three men were operating a time worn begging scheme. Two of the men, brothers, were from Kentucky and the third was a native of French Lick and had met the brothers a few days ago. They decided that labor would be too strenuous for their delicate constitutions during this cold weather and the French Lick man framed up the plan by which one of the brothers would take the part of a deaf mute. The "unfortunate" man was of course stranded here and was trying to get home. The letter of recommendation was written and the French Lick man and the other Kentuckian made the rounds of the business houses for alms. Because of the hard luck story they told and the cold weather they succeeded in picking up a few dollars before they were taken in charge by the officer.

The men were well dressed and insisted that the third member of the trio was deaf and dumb. The Chief told them to leave the city but they asked for the privilege of hunting up the "unfortunate." They were unable to find him within a reasonable time and the two men were escorted to the city limits and started towards Columbus.

The Kentuckian told Chief McCord that he was greatly concerned about his "poor brother" who could neither read nor write. Just before they started on their twenty-mile "hike" north they offered the chief thirty cents to give to the brother left behind. They instructed the officer to make signs as the man could not speak a word and would not be able to hear his voice.

Soon after Chief McCord returned to the business district he picked up the stranger coming out a saloon and told him he was wanted. The man uttered some muttered sounds and the Chief told him he could talk and there was no use to try and deceive him. With that the stranger shouted, "Of course I can talk and hear too."

After the Kentuckian had recovered the use of his vocal organs he explained how the trio were working the game. He declared this was the first time he had ever attempted the scheme and pleaded with the officer

TODAY BEGINNING OF LENTEN SEASON

Six Weeks of Fasting, Abstinence and Prayer Will Be Observed By Members of Catholic Church.

EATING OF MEAT REGULATED

Special Services Held During Week Beginning With Palm Sunday and Closing With Easter.

Today is the beginning of the lenten season, the six weeks of fasting, abstinence and prayer in the Catholic churches throughout the world. Until after Easter Sunday the marriage altar, the social calendar and the party engagement book will be closed by those who observe the season. Several protestant churches, especially the Episcopal, also observe lent with special services.

The ceremonies of lent in the Catholic church begin with the observance of Ash Wednesday, so called because on this day the ashes of the palms, blessed upon Palm Sunday of the previous year, are sprinkled on the forehead. At mass Wednesday morning the officiating priests in all Catholic churches first sprinkle ashes upon their own foreheads and then, saying, "Remember, man, that thou art dust and unto dust thou shalt return," sprinkle the ashes upon the foreheads of more than 200,000,000 members of their congregations.

All persons from twenty-one to sixty years old, excepting the ill, will be asked to fast. In the Catholic countries no meat may be eaten, but in the United States the use of meat is permitted on Sunday and once a day on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays. One large meal is permitted each day. For breakfast many have only coffee and crackers, while others eat nothing. Catholics also are expected to attend mass each day, if possible.

Throughout the lenten season special services are held on Friday evenings at the St. Ambrose Catholic church. At those services devotions, "The Way of the Cross," are conducted. The fourteen pictures on the walls, each representing a stage in the suffering of Christ from his condemnation before Pilate to his crucifixion, are visited one by one and a prayer is said before each.

At the public service, the congregation remains in its place turning toward each picture in turn as the priest with his assistants visits the pictures, all joining in the prayers. Many persons, however, prefer to visit the churches during the day and actually go from picture to picture.

The last week in lent, "holy week," beginning with Palm Sunday, which this year is April 5, is a week of special devotion. On Palm Sunday, palms are blessed and distributed among the congregation in commemoration of the entry of Christ into Jerusalem when the people met Him bearing olive branches. A special procession is held and the congregations march about singing hymns. The narrative of the Passion of Christ, according to the gospel of Matthew, also is read. At the local Catholic church the forty hours of

RURAL MAIL CARRIER TELLS WHY HE WORE FEATHER IN CAP

J. U. Montgomery Recaptured Turkey Which Took Three Mile Ride on Top of School Hack.

When J. U. Montgomery, rural mail carrier on route No. 6, returned to the city Tuesday afternoon a small turkey feather was seen clinging to his cap. His friends who have always known him as an upright and honest citizen and whose integrity has never been questioned were not inclined to believe that he had surreptitiously visited a chicken house along the route but were forced to admit that the circumstantial evidence was against him. Mr. Montgomery was not long in explaining the presence of the feather, however, and said he had put it in his cap purposely.

According to his story a turkey had perched itself upon the top of the consolidated school hack driven by Harry Ruddick and he had driven the hack three miles Monday morning before he noticed the bird. When the wagon reached the Mutton Creek bottoms the turkey flew from the wagon and disappeared. Tuesday afternoon as Mr. Montgomery was traveling over his mail route he saw the bird some distance from him and following the principle of the Golden Rule started out after it. After wading through snow and water about two feet deep he recaptured the bird and placed it in his wagon. He put the feather in his cap as proof that he had captured the bird. He also telephoned to Mr. Ruddick that the turkey had been captured.

One of the horses driven by Mr. Montgomery caught its foot in a bridge in Jennings county and was released after being assisted by Harry Robbins and son. It was necessary to chop away the frozen ground before the animal could free its foot. The defective place was just at the end of the bridge.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY GAVE ENJOYABLE BANQUET

Organization of German Lutheran Church Observed Third Anniversary of Founding.

In honor of the third anniversary of the founding of the Young People's Society of the German Lutheran church the members gave a very enjoyable banquet at the school building Tuesday night. A large number of the members were present and thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

The members of the banquet committee were the Misses Martha L. Schmidt, Frieda Deppert, Lillie Osterman, Lillian Hoffmeier, Flora Eggers and Esther Steinwedel and M. W. Steinwedel, John Rodert and Ernst Brunow. Miss Martha L. Schmidt is president of the organization, Miss Luella Brand, vice president, Miss Grace Taskey, secretary and Miss Clara Schmidt treasurer.

An excellent program was arranged after the banquet, Ernst Brunow acting as toastmaster. He introduced the following speakers whose subjects were as follows:

RECOMMENDATION MADE BY RALSON

Governor Urges Parties to Indicate Willingness in Platforms for Primary Election Law.

DEMAND FOR IT GROWING

State Executive Says Personally He is Not Favorable to Law But Wants People to Decide.

By United Press. Indianapolis, February 25—In a statement issued from the state capitol building, today, Governor Ralston recommended that each of the political parties indicate in the platform a willingness to have a vote on the primary election law in 1914 election. In this manner each party would be bound by its promise to the people and the result would be the same no matter which party was successful.

The Governor declared that personally he had never been in favor of the primary election law and his views were not changed at this time. He said, however, that there was a growing sentiment in favor of the proposition and he wanted the people to decide the question for themselves.

SECRET EMBARGO PLACED ON AMERICAN PUBLICATIONS

Newspapers Opposing the Mexican Government Are Held up in Mexico City Under Orders.

By United Press. Mexico City, February 25—Following an investigation as to why certain mail from the United States had not been delivered in this city, it was discovered today that a secret embargo has been placed against all American publications opposing the Mexican government.

It was further found that the post-office at this place was flooded with undelivered mail coming within the restriction of the embargo act. The state department of the United States has been notified.

WHAT'S WHAT IN SPRING STYLES

Hat to Be Worn Over One Eye; Skirt Slit In Back.

JACKETS SHORT AND LOOSE

Bright Colors Predominate, With Tropical Shades, Tangerine and Lemon In the Lead—General Scheme of the New Fashions Harks Back to 1830—Colored Wigs.

Spring hats worn over one eye, skirts slit in the back instead of on the side and colored wigs!

These are some of the striking features of new styles for women, according to advices from Paris. Early reports that colored hair would be fashionable were discredited, but now with their first actual appearance at a big social function in London—Mrs. George Keppel's dinner party for her daughter, Miss Violet Keppel—it is stated that this eccentricity of fashion has come into wide favor abroad. Hair of every shade of the spectrum has received London's O. K., and a few men have been brave enough to act as pioneers for the wearing of men's wigs of vivid colors.

Paris authorities on dress announce that the styles which will prevail this year will be a great variation from those which were popular last year.

Grotesque Effect of Tilted Hat.

The women of Paris lately have been covering their ears with their hair. The new hats tilted on one side, quite covering the eye, makes the wearer appear as if she has no ears and only one eye.

As to gowns, many full skirts are included. Much brocade is used, too heavy for the American spring climate. There are minaret tunics and evening gowns in vivid colors with black lace trimmings.

Tunics are long and flaring over narrow lower skirts, on the same lines as some of the aprons of last season. There are Roman stripes and plaid over solid colors.

The coats are long, cut away from the hips and flaring at the back. Printed crapes and gabardines are used for the majority of the frocks and suits. Thin frocks are made of linen and poplin in calico designs, and Neapolitan capes are a feature. With evening gowns, transparent capes will be worn.

One of the favorite color combinations is Spanish orange with brown. According to one authority on dress, the general idea in the new fashions is the 1830 style.

There is a tendency to fluffiness, and the idea of bouffancy has been used to a greater degree than ever before.

Fan Shaped Skirts.

Later in the season, it is believed, there will be differences shown in skirts. Slits have a tendency now to stray around at the back instead of the front. Some of the skirts are made with a fan shaped bottom, to give what is called the "tango" effect when dancing.

Jackets are to be short and loose and mostly of silk. Roman stripes and plaids combining plain colors will be much used. There will be many changing taffetas, some with gold or silver handmade embroideries. Then there is the spiral rep, which gives a twisted effect.

Among the novelties are clasps and buckles of jade or lapis lazuli in oriental style and a peasant collar which is set away from the neck and is made of organdie.

Bright colors seem to predominate in everything. Most are tropical shades—tangerine, tango, lemon and lion.

A pompadour effect given by flowers is a new note that will conform to the fashion of powdering the hair in white. The latter will be much in vogue in America this season, as may also be the extreme of high colored wigs just indorsed by London society.

HOW FAR TO EUROPE?

Distance to Be Determined by German and American Scientists.

The German Geodetic Institute at Potsdam and the coast and geodetic survey at Washington are engaged in an attempt to redetermine on an accurate basis the distance between America and Europe.

The new measurements are based on the theory that the earth is not constructed on a so called rigid system, but contains a certain degree of elasticity. Doubts are said to have arisen in the minds of geographers in recent times as to the supposed unchangeability in distance between the continents.

The Washington authorities have undertaken to measure the distance between the American capital and Horta, in the Azores, while the Potsdam institute will take up the stretch between the Azores and Berlin.

Presidents' Wives In Plaster Figures.

At a period costume exhibition in the National museum in Washington plastic figures of the wives of the presidents sitting in their favorite positions will be shown. Mrs. Martha Washington will be represented sitting at a tea table and wearing one of the gowns she used at social functions at Mount Vernon in the years long past. Articles appertaining to women's wear during the years which have passed since that time will also be shown.

AMERICAN TO LEAD AERO ATTACK ON MEXICO CITY.

Will Command Fourteen Machines For Scout and Bomb Service.

With fourteen swift aeroplanes under his command, Granville Pollock, a young American who has flown in New York, Chicago and other cities of the United States, will lead an aerial attack for the Mexican rebels against Huerta when the hordes under Carranza, Villa, Obregon and Gonzales swoop down on the City of Mexico.

In the fleet which the American will command, with the formal title of "admiral" conferred on him, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, in papers sent to New Orleans by General V. Carranza head of the revolution, will be two biplanes of the Bleriot and Dyon types and two big biplanes. The biplanes will be used for scout and photographic work and for dropping bombs. The biplanes will carry one light rapid fire gun each and also will drop bombs.

Each machine will carry two persons, the driver and aviator and an officer of the rebel artillery, who will attend to the machine gun or the bombs, make photographs or maps and sketch the position of the enemy. This artilleryman, in the case of the biplanes, will have control of a short radius wireless outfit, with which communication will be maintained with the central camps of the rebels.

The flagship of the aerial admiral is a Dyon biplane, invented and built by the man from whom Pollock learned the art of flying—George Dyon, now at Hendon, England. The rebels now have five flying machines—two biplanes at Guaymas, two monoplanes at Matamoros and one at Juarez. Mr. Dyon is to supply nine more at once. One of the reasons for delaying the march of the rebel army southward has been the lack of the desired number of airships, it is said.

Malaria.

It has been definitely proved that the disease known as "malaria" is caused by the bite of the mosquito of the genus called Anopheles claviger. The destruction of the mosquito, therefore, carries along with it the destruction of malaria. There is not much doubt that sooner or later science will hit upon the ways and means of completely exterminating the pestiferous insect which is responsible for so much loss to humanity.—New York American.

The Secret.

Old maids, according to life insurance records, are better risks than married women, while bachelors are not such a desirable risk as married men. Looks like a lack of teamwork somewhere.—Duluth News-Tribune.

The Hollow of Her Hand

by GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

A WOMAN'S overpowering obsession for revenge upon the snobbish, aristocratic family of her murdered husband prompts her to shelter and protect the girl who had made her a widow so that she might finally drag down the family name by bringing about the marriage of her husband's brother with the girl who had taken a life with justification; thus, in lie the destinies of an exclusive family and a beautiful girl. Undoubtedly the best story ever written by the popular author of "Graustark," "Brewster's Millions," "Truxton King," and many other successful novels.

A story that is intensely dramatic with a plot unique beyond the ordinary.

Be sure to read it. Our coming serial!

A Winter Cough.

A stubborn, annoying, depressing cough hangs on, racks the body, weakens the lungs, and often leads to serious results. The first dose of Dr. King's New Discovery gives relief. Henry D. Sanders, of Cavendish, Vt., was threatened with consumption, after having pneumonia. He writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery ought to be in every family; it is certainly the best of all medicines for coughs, colds or lung trouble." Good for children's coughs. Money back if not satisfied. Price 50c and $1.00. Recommended by H. H. Carter, Successor to Andrews Drug Co.

Nothing is Impossible

You may think it impossible to have your earning power doubled, tripled or quadrupled, but the realization of such an ambition is no more impossible than flying from New York to Los Angeles—telephoning from New York to Denver—or telegraphing without wires from San Francisco to Japan, all of which has been done within the last year.

The International Correspondence Schools offer to men with ambition the opportunity to make their dreams come true. Thousands of ambitious men are now taking this short cut to better positions—to greater home comforts—to a higher standing as citizens.

Now if you have said, "I CAN DO IT"—say, "I WILL DO IT," and the I. C. S. will help you to succeed. Just mark the coupon, for that is the first step.

This step will bring you without any obligation on your part, all particulars as to how the I. C. S. trains you for success—and the realization of your ambition.

A FERTILIZED FIELD YIELDS THE RICHEST HARVEST

Mr. Merchant when the manufacturer of some article with a national reputation comes into your town and advertises in your newspapers he is cultivating the field for you.

You hardly have to plant any seeds or even watch the weather. All you have to do is to gather in the crops.

But the harvest will be twice as large for you and twice as pleasing to the manufacturer if you do help a little.

Two pushes in the same direction will shove the plough a little deeper into the soil.

In other words, when the manufacturer uses this newspaper and other newspapers to exploit goods which you carry on your shelves, push these goods.

Show them in your windows and on your counters.

Advertise the fact that you have them.

The public will be interested and will at least want to see them. If the goods are right it will want to buy them.

Sales mean profits. Sales of the goods that people want mean reputation and good will.

If any manufacturer who is interested in co-operative dealer work will address the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York, it will be glad to answer questions. Booklet on request.

NINETEEN DOG LICENSES HAVE BEEN ISSUED IN 1914

Saturday is the Last Day Owners
Can Purchase Tags Without Being Subject to Fine.

"Every dog has his day" and next Monday will be a red letter day in canine circles in Seymour. Joyous words on March 2, the police department will start out on its annual hunt for dogs that are not decorated with new tags. The city clerk Albert Johnson, has given notice that February 28 is the last day when the tags can be purchased without paying the additional costs for delinquencies.

It is estimated that there are about five hundred dogs in Seymour but the largest number of tags issued in any one year was five hundred in 1913. Thus far there have been nineteen 1914 tags issued showing that if all owners comply with the ordinance before Saturday the city clerk will be a busy writing out the licenses and distributing the tags.

Chief of Police McCord has familiarized himself with the ordinance and is ready to enforce it Monday. The tagless dogs will be held for several days by the police and unless the owners pay for the tags the canine will be shot. Each owner is subject to a fine for failing to purchase the tags as required by the ordinance.

M'KINLEY'S AUNT DIES IN POVERTY

Lived In a Cabin In Pulaski County.

SCORNED AID OF MEDICINE

Sister of President McKinley's Father Lived to Be Eighty-Three and Bore Eleven Children Without the Assistance of Doctors, and Didn't Want One "Fussing About" Her Bedside as the End Approached.

Winamac, Ind., Feb. 25.—In poverty but happy in her little three-roomed home, Mrs. Nellie McKinley Winters, eighty-three years old, an aunt of the late President William McKinley, is dead of complications caused by age. Until the end she refused medical aid, saying: "I have lived this long and had eleven children without the assistance of a doctor and I don't want one fussing about me at this time of life. I am not sick, but am just a little bit tired."

The hut in which Mrs. Winters died is fourteen miles northwest of Winamac and is a typical Hoosier pioneer log cabin.

She lived with her bachelor sons, George and Ward Winters, and had served as housekeeper at the little home where she never enjoyed wealth or position. The quaint furniture included an old organ, violin, guitar and banjo, which served as a source of entertainment during the long winter evenings.

The record in the family Bible showed that she was the youngest child of Benjamin McKinley and was born at Baggs Hill, O., July 5, 1830. She was a sister of William McKinley, sr., father of the late president. She came to Pulaski county from Columbus, O., in July, 1911, and made her home with her two sons, who had come here before. She was the mother of ten sons and one daughter. Nine sons survive. The body will be taken to Columbus for burial beside her husband, who died many years ago.

FOUR PRISONERS HELD AT COUNTY JAIL FOR TRIAL

Cases Against Ed and Tod Beavers
For Assault Upon Father Will Be Called This Term.

Several cases were set for trial in circuit court today, and other business was transacted.

The proof of notice to owners and the final assessment in the Henry Eggersman ditch has been filed and approved by the court. The drain was ordered established. Wm. Carpenter was appointed Superintendent of Construction under bond of $5,000.

In the case of Ed M. McElwain vs. Mollie Lewis for foreclosure of note a continuance was asked for and granted.

Benj. F. Schneek was given a judgment for $283.58 against Fred Leininger after the evidence was heard by Judge Swails.

Emma Smallwood seeks a divorce from her husband, Samuel whom she alleges has been cruel and inhuman to her.

Rosina D. Steach says that her husband, George Steach failed to provide and therefore she seeks a legal separation.

An affidavit has been filed against Henry Parish in which he is charged with alleged theft of 240 cross ties valued at $75 and another charge of alleged malicious trespass has also been filed. John W. Weekly being the prosecuting witness in each case.

Four prisoners are being held in the county jail waiting trial among them being Ed and Tod Beavers, who are charged with the alleged intent to kill their father. The elder Beavers is well on the road to recovery, but it is claimed by the State that the cases against the boys will be pushed.

"Girl of My Dreams."

"The Girl of My Dreams," which will be presented here March 5, is the joint work of Wilbur D. Nesbit and Otto Hauerbach; the late Karl Hoschna is responsible for the music of melodious tunes and jingling airs—the same Karl Hoschna who wrote the haunting theme in "Madame Sherry"—"Every Little Movement." Frank Smithson is the stage producer and his work is free from any vulgarity or overworked stage effects. All of the dances arranged for the principals are graceful waltz movements and sprightly galops. Many novel chorus numbers are worked into the songs, most noteworthy of which are the ones illustrating "Dear Little Games of Guessing" and "Dr. Tinkle Tinker."

E. church at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Arrangements have been made to accommodate the large audience which is expected. The single admission is thirty-five cents. Children under fourteen years of age, twenty-five cents.

devotion are also observed during the week preceding Easter.

The services on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday follow the events in the life of Christ prior to his death and on Thursday, "holy Thursday," the last supper as commemorated with holy communion. On this day, Catholics visit the church as frequently as possible.

Probably the most impressive ceremony during lent is the observance of Good Friday in commemoration of the death of Christ. The crucifix, showing the image of Christ crucified, is unveiled and the people approach reverently to kiss the image of their Saviour on the cross.

On holy Saturday, the eve of Easter, the old fires, which have been kept lighted in Catholic churches during the year, are extinguished and the new fires for the ensuing year, produced from flint and steel are started and blessed. The water to be used during the year in baptism also is blessed and the prophecies relating to the resurrection are read.

Easter Sunday is a day of rejoicing and of feasting. Throughout lent the vestments are of purple, symbolic of repentance, but on Easter the vestments are changed for white ones. Easter is the greatest feast day in the church year.

Services are held at the St. Ambrose Catholic church each evening at 7:45 o'clock.

LOCAL WOMAN NOW A BIG ADVERTISER

When one of our woman customers recently bought five bottles of Harmony Hair Beautifier to give to her friends for Christmas, she started all by herself a mighty big advertising campaign, because not only does each one of the women to whom she gave a bottle of the Beautifier now consider it indispensable for the proper care of the hair, but each of them has been the means of getting several of her friends to use it. As a consequence, if things keep on in this way for a few months longer, we will be selling more of it than of all other hair preparations combined. Sprinkle a little Harmony Hair Beautifier on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil; will not change color of hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us.—H. H. Carter Drug Co., Seymour.

MARION ACTS QUICKLY ON REVISED MARKET PLAN
Cost of Living Reduced by New Method of Charging No Rent for Stalls.

By United Press.
Marion, Ind., Feb. 25—This city has acted quickly on its revised market plan, and as a result the assertion is made that the cost of living has been lowered. The new arrangement changes the market to a six-day-a-week, no-stall-rent plan. The price of eggs at once dropped from 30 and 35 cents both at the booths and at the groceries. Canned goods dropped 10 per cent, and butter, potatoes and sugar dropped accordingly. The stall owners reported good business and profits and the thrifty housewives who thronged the place were well satisfied.

WARSAW IS PROSPEROUS WITHOUT RETAIL SALOONS
Taxes Have Remained the Same and The Assessed Valuation Has Rapidly Increased.

By United Press.
Warsaw, Ind., Feb. 25—That saloons are not necessary to the welfare of a community has been demonstrated to the complete satisfaction of the people of this city. Warsaw has been 'dry' for about six years, being first made 'dry' by remonstrance and later voted 'dry.' And the city has never enjoyed a period of prosperity as at the present time.
The arguments of the liquor men that the removal of saloons would hurt the city as a trading point and would result in a general depression of business, have all been upset by the conditions that have existed since water became the chief beverage instead of beer.
Since the city joined the 'dry' column, the taxes have remained the same, and the assessed valuation has rapidly increased. Banking institutions show heavier deposits and business houses have enjoyed better trade and have had less unpaid accounts. The city's business section has undergone an entire change, new buildings taking the places of many of the old ones and others being remodeled. At least $300,000 has been spent in improvements in the business section alone. Over ten miles of pavement have been laid and the property owners have welcomed the expenditure, which totaled many thousands of dollars.
In former years it was argued that such an expense could not be shouldered. During the 'dry' period five or six good factories were located here, and the city's payroll was increased at least $300,000 a year. An increase of fifteen hundred in population has also resulted.
An additional testimonial of the prosperity that has accompanied the ousting of the liquor traffic comes from the fact that plans are being made to spend between $250,000 and $300,000 in the erection of public buildings this year. These expenditures will include the following: New school buildings, costing $50,000; Moose home, costing $50,000; Methodist church, $50,000; Baptist church, $35,000; addition to the Presbyterian church, $25,000; Carnegie library, $35,000. The last named building may not be erected this year, but it is believed to be a certainty in the near future.
The people of Warsaw have had the experience of living in both 'wet' and 'dry' territory and the comparison has been enough to make it certain that saloons will never again have a place in the community.

Smithson used to labor under the impression that he was a born humorist, but he has given up trying to be funny now.

He called one day on an old school friend and was shown into a room where his chum's sister was busy arranging a quantity of dried grass which she had collected.

"What a quantity of dried grass you have collected, Miss Ritchie!" he said. Then his humor burst forth. "Nice room for a donkey to get into!"

"Make yourself at home, Mr. Smithson," said the girl pleasantly.

When he arrived home all the humor was crushed out of him forever.—London Scraps.

OPTION ELECTION AT CONNERSVILLE

Both Sides Equally Confident of Outcome.

END OF PEACEFUL CAMPAIGN

With the Utmost Friendliness Opposing Factions in Connerville Today Are Settling Question of Whether the Seventeen Saloons There Shall Go Out of Business or Be Continued as Part of City's Business Life.

Connerville, Ind., Feb. 24.—Mass meetings were held in churches last night by the temperance workers and the "wets" kept very busy patrolling the streets in their cause. Last night marked the end of the most peaceful local option campaign ever witnessed here. Both forces are friendly and when they meet on the street discuss the situation amicably. Sunday fifteen of the seventeen saloon keepers attended a temperance meeting at which Frank C. Tilden of Newcastle presided.

The "drys" say they are sure of victory. Three years ago the city was voted "wet" by a majority of thirty-six. The temperance workers assert that one hundred "wet" advocates have left Connerville since then and that many who voted in favor of liquor before will do otherwise at today's election.

The "wet" organization announce strong hopes of winning saying that many people who were against them before have turned and will vote "wet" in order to reduce the tax rate. The saloon element is bold in its boasts that the school teachers could not have been paid last year had the city lost the saloon revenue.

CHURCH ROW IS NOT OVER

Polish Children Are Taken Out of Parochial Schools.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 24.—What is said to be the first of a series of steps in their withdrawal from the Roman Catholic church was taken yesterday when members of St. Casimir's parish withdrew their children from the parochial school and entered them in the public schools. Because of the suddenness of the move it was necessary for the school authorities to open a temporary schoolroom for the pupils. This action is the outcome of the recent riot at the church when the members resisted the installation of a new priest whom they did not like.

It is said that the next move on the part of fully one-third of the parish of 2,900 will be to request admission into the Episcopal church. A few months ago the entire congregation of St. Stephen's church, composed of Hungarians, joined the Episcopal church with the Rev. Victor Vonkubiny, a former Roman Catholic priest, as pastor.

Two Pike County Boys Held For Killing Wesley Taylor.

Petersburg, Ind., Feb. 24.—The grand jury has returned indictments in the Taylor murder case, in which Wesley Taylor, 14 years old, was slain by his brother, James Taylor, while the latter was under the influence of liquor.

Both James Taylor and his cousin Ross were indicted for murder in the first degree. Ross Taylor loaned James Taylor the gun and accompanied him to the scene of the killing. It is said that the two Taylor boys confessed who sold them the whisky on which they got drunk and that other indictments were returned.

TO SAVE THE FACES OF HOUSE LEADERS

Repeal of Free Tolls Provision Is Pressing.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The present leaders in the house are disposed to sidestep the initiation of legislation providing for the repeal of the free tolls provision of the Panama canal act through permitting the fight for repeal to be inaugurated in the senate. It has been pointed out by the leaders, whose views are at great variance in regard to the repeal, that the faces of the leaders in the house might be saved by having the repeal passed in the senate, thus providing the congressmen with the excuse that it is a matter of foreign policy. It is the claim of the administration's policy that they have a clear and clean majority favorable to repeal. At the same time a careful poll of the members of the present house who voted for free tolls in the Sixty-second congress shows a majority of about twenty against repeal.

The unofficial announcement of Representative Kitchin of North Carolina that he would vote against repeal of the free tolls clause puts the North Carolina statesman out of the running as the administration's spokesman when the bill comes up for the action of the house. In consequence the duty of fighting for the repeal will devolve on Chairman Adamson of the interstate and foreign commerce committee.

With Majority Leader Underwood, Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee and Representative Doremus of Michigan, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, all opposed to repeal, it has become important that Mr. Adamson shall have elbow room when the fight starts. He will be warmly supported by Representative Shirley of Kentucky and a few of the other Democratic leaders, but regardless of those the majority of the house is divided upon the general question of repeal, the more powerful leaders being ranged about equally on both sides of the question. It is also said that Representative Mann of Illinois, the Republican leader, is planning to fight repeal from first to last. It is a question how the Republicans are divided on the repeal measure, though it is thought that a majority will support Mr. Mann in his fight.

WIRELESS PHONE TALKS 25 MILES

Marconi Operator on His Ship Chats With Wife Ashore.

USES SIMPLE $100 DEVICE.

Human Voice Seemingly From Nowhere Which Amazes Wireless Men on Other Vessels That of Young Inventor Who Not Only Converses With Them, but Sings and Jokes.

A mysterious voice that had been wafted on wireless waves over the waters between New York and Maine for the last two weeks was found to have been that of Irving Vermilya, twenty-four years old, Marconi operator aboard the steamship Northland, which plies between New York and Portland, Me.

He has invented a wireless telephone which he says will easily carry his voice in audible tones twenty-five miles and that the apparatus costs only $100.

"On all our last trips," said Vermilya, "I have sent the captain's messages to the regular shore stations by telephone. The other day, when passing Vineyard sound light vessel, I relayed a call to a revenue cutter that a schooner was ashore on Handkerchief shoal."

Voices Come From Space.

Wireless operators of vessels along the coast have been puzzled beyond measure by a voice coming from space. Love messages, business talks and music have reached their ears. Even amateurs ashore have caught the voice. Several days ago the operator at the Sea Gate station nearly dropped out of his chair when, instead of a series of dots and dashes, a voice came out of his receiver: "Northland will dock 4 p. m."

The operator looked about to see if any one was playing a trick. Finding himself alone, he flashed a call to repeat the message. Back came the distinct reply, "Just thought you might be lonesome and I would say 'Hello!'"

Has Fun With Phone.

"I've had a lot of fun with it," said the young wireless man. "I can easily send my voice twenty-five miles. Once when the Northland was in Portland I began singing into the transmitter, and after I stopped I picked up a call from the operator of the Calvin Austin, at Eastport, 150 miles away. He asked me to sing some more. He did not know who I was or where my voice came from."

"I don't always talk or sing. Sometimes I switch on a phonograph and play opera airs. Once in awhile I send out a story or a joke through the fog and mist. On our last trip to Portland I had the phonograph working. After I'd shut it off an amateur operator on shore wireless said:

"Play it again. Mother wants to hear it."

Vermilya's wife has taken a keen interest in his wireless experiments. He built a wireless station at their home at Mount Vernon, N. Y., and, no matter what time the Northland passes, Mrs. Vermilya is at the receiver in the sitting room waiting for his voice. The only instruments necessary to receive it are the regular wireless receivers. She also has a voice sending apparatus, and other operators have frequently heard: "What time do you expect to get home, Irving?" and the reply: "Pretty soon, dear. Passing City Island now."

Vermilya will not divulge the workings of his phone, but he says it is a "simple thing."

MAPS ONE'S GOLF SWING.

British Professor Says His Instrument Records Muscular Effort.

Professor H. S. Henshaw, in speaking before the Royal Institution in London on the mechanics of muscular effort, illustrated his address by a new recording instrument invented by himself.

By stepping or otherwise using pressure on the machine the muscular effect is recorded by a pencil on a piece of paper. He showed the swings of George Duncan, the golfer, as recorded by the apparatus and also made records of himself—walking slowly, walking briskly and running—by the machine.

"The courses of golf," he said, "are absolutely characteristic, just as those of bowling, sprinting or any other courses. By this machine it will be quite as easy to identify a person by his normal walk as it is to identify him by finger prints."

Discovers New Dark Planet.

The Rev. Joel H. Metcalf of Winchester, Mass., who discovered a new comet several months ago, now has discovered a new dark planet in the space between Mars and Jupiter. This planet comes in the class of asteroids, of which there are about 800 between Mars and Jupiter and of which Mr. Metcalf has discovered forty. He says this new planet is about 500 miles in diameter.

$3,000,000 to Make Real Millers.

In disposing of an $8,000,000 estate the will of William Hood Dunwoody, a miller, designates $3,000,000 for the establishment and maintenance of a school in Minneapolis to graduate real millers and check young men starting the business as clerks.

THE LONG SUFFERING STATE OF NEW YORK

Another Channel of Graft Has Been Disclosed.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 24.—The final report of the investigation into the so-called "printing ring" in Albany, made by John A. Hennessy and two expert printers under the direction of Governor Sulzer, has been filed with the department of efficiency and economy in Albany and the attention of Governor Glynn has been called to it by Hennessy.

The full report, with many exhibits, will be turned over to the assembly committee which soon will begin an inquiry into graft in state departments. The report charges that there is a diversion of at least $300,000 a year of the state's funds and a waste of much more in the state printing and the purchase of supplies for the departments in Albany. It goes into detail into the manner in which different departments pay different prices for the same articles and prices that are much higher than any business concern would pay for them. It gives many and specific instances of the methods by which the cost of printing of reports and of bills is manifolded many times for the benefit of the contractors.

The report says that as a rule stationery and printing cost the state 300 per cent more than the regular market price. This is due to the fact that competition has been eliminated in recent years by an arrangement whereby one company gets the contract for most of the circulars and blanks and another company does the legislative printing.

EVER HAVE A FATIGUE BUG?

Well, if You're Kind of Lazy Maybe You've Got One.

Dr. William H. Waters, professor of pathology at the Boston University School of Medicine, declares that not only is fatigue the beginning of a toxic condition of the system, but that the longer the fatigue continues the more blocked becomes the system with the poison thus generated until eventually a general breaking down of the entire health ensues. He says:

"Fatigue is the result of excessive amounts of poison turned into the system—the body is suddenly poisoned. If we rest the surplus poison is gradually carried away, but if we continue to keep our bodies in this half poisoned state continually in time the whole system will become permanently affected by it."

DANCING RULES GIVEN BY MR. AND MRS. CASTLE.

Do not wriggle the shoulders.
Do not shake the hips.
Do not twist the body.
Do not flounce the elbows.
Do not pump the arms.
Do not hop—glide instead.
Avoid low, fantastic and acrobatic dips.

Stand far enough away from each other to allow free movement of the body in order to dance gracefully and comfortably.

The gentleman should rest his hand lightly against the lady's back, touching her with the finger tips and wrist only or, if preferred, with the inside of the wrist and the back of the thumb. The gentleman's left hand and forearm should be held up in the air parallel with his body, with the hand extended, holding the lady's hand lightly on his palm. The arm should never be straightened out.

Remember you are at a social gathering and not in a gymnasium.

Drop the turkey trot, the grizzly bear, the bunny hug, etc. These dances are ugly, ungraceful and out of fashion.

Boils Are a Bad Indication

No Time Should be Lost in Purifying Your Blood.

At the first appearance of pimples and boils the blood should be given a good searching internal bath with S. S. S., the greatest blood purifier known to man.

This remarkable remedy has the peculiar action of soaking through the intestines directly into the blood. In a few minutes its influence is at work in every artery, vein and tiny capillary. Every membrane, every organ of the body, every emunctory becomes in effect a filter to strain the blood of impurities. The stimulating properties of S. S. S. compel the skin, liver, bowels, kidneys, bladder, to all work to the one end of casting out every irritating, every pain-inflicting atom of poison; it dislodges by irrigation all accumulations in the joints, causes neutral and scatters those peculiar formations in the skin that cause boils and other skin eruptions.

And best of all, this remarkable remedy is welcome to the weakest stomach. In a very brief time S. S. S. has the reconstructive process so under control that all eruptive places heal.

You can get S. S. S. at any drug store. Beware of any effort to sell you something claimed to be "just as good." If yours is a peculiar case and you desire expert advice, write to the Swift Specific Co., 212 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

CHAPTER XXIX.

The Coming of Greef King.

It was Sunday afternoon, and under the hemlocks, Rickey Snyder had gathered her minions—a dozen children from the near-by houses with the usual sprinkling of little blacks from the kitchens. There were parents, of course, to whom this mingling of color and degree was a matter of conventional prohibition, but since the advent of Rickey, in whose soul lay a Napoleonic instinct of leadership, this was more honored in the breach than in the observance.

"My! Ain't it scrumptious here now!" said Cozy Cabell, hanging yellow lady-slippers over her ears. "I wish we could play here always."

"Mr. Valiant will let us," said Rickey. "I asked him."

"Oh, he will," responded Cozy gloomily, "but he'll probably go and marry somebody who'll be mean about it."

"Everybody doesn't get married," said one of the Byloe twins, with masculine assurance. "Maybe he won't."

"Much a boy knows about it!" retorted Cozy scornfully. "Women have to, and some one of them will make him. (Greenville Female Seminary Simms, if you slap that little nigger again, I'll slap you!)"

Greenie rolled over on the grass and tittered. "Miss Mattie Sue didn't," she said. "Ah heah hub say de yuddah day et wuz er moughty good feelin' ter go ter baid Mistis en git up Mars-tab!"

"Well," said Cozy, tossing her head till the flower earrings danced. "I'm going to get married if the man hasn't got anything but a character and a red mustache. Married women don't have to prove they could have got a husband if they had wanted to."

"Let's play something," proposed Rosebud Meredith, on whom the discussion palled. "Let's play King, King Katko."

"It's Sunday!"—this from her smaller and more righteous sister. "We're forbidden to play anything but Bible games on Sunday, and if Rosebud does, I'll tell."

"Jay-bird tattle-tale!" sang Rosebud derisively. "Don't care if you do!"

"Well," decreed Rickey. "We'll play Sunday school then. It would take a saint to object to that. I'm superintendent and this stump's my desk. All you children sit down under that tree."

"All right, you needn't," retorted Rickey freezingly. "Sit up, Greenie. People don't lie on their backs in Sunday-school."

Greenie yawned drowsily, and righted herself with injured slowness. "Ah diffuses ter 'cep' yo' insult, Rickey Snyder," she said. "Ah'd ruthah lose mah 'ligion dan mah laz'ness. En Ah 'spises yo' spissable dissission!"

"Let us all rise," continued Rickey, unmoved, "and sing 'Kingdom Coming.'" And she struck up lustily, beating time on the stump with a stick, and the rows of children joined in with unctious, the colored contingent coming out strong on the chorus:

De yerf shall be full ob de wunduhful story
As waitins dat covah de sea!

The clear voices in the quiet air startled the fluttering birds and sent a squirrel to the tip-top of an oak, from which he looked down, flitting his brush. They roused a man, too, who had lain in a sudden sleep under a bush at a little distance. He was ragged and soiled and his heavy brutal face, covered with a dark stubble of some days' growth, had an ugly scar slanting back from cheek to hair. Without getting up, he rolled over to command a better view, and set his eyes, blinking from their slumber, on the children.

"We will now take up the collection," said Rickey. ("You can do it, June. Use a flat piece of bark.") Remember that what we give today is for the poor heathen in—in Alabama."

He Bent Over, Suddenly Noting the Scent; It Was Cape Jessamine.

The bark-slab made its rounds, receiving leaves, acorns, and an occasional pin. Midway, however, there arose a shrill shriek from the bearer and the collection was scattered broadcast. "Rosebud Meredith," said Rickey witheringly, "it would serve you right for putting that toad in the plate if your hand would get all over warts! I'm sure I hope it will." She rescued the fallen piece of bark and announced: "The collection this afternoon has amounted to a hundred dollars and seven cents. And now, children, we will skip the catechism and I will tell you a story."

Her auditors hunched themselves nearer, a double row of attentive white and black faces, as Rickey with a preliminary bass cough, began in a drawing tone whose mimicry called forth giggles of ecstasy.

"There were once two little sisters, who went to Sunday-school and loved their teacher v-e-e-ry much. They were always good and attentive—not like that little nigger over there! The one with his thumb in his mouth! One was little Mary and the other was little Susy. They had a mighty rich uncle who lived in Richmond, and once he came to see them and gave them each a dollar. And they were v-e-e-ry glad. It wasn't a mean old paper dollar, all dirt and creases; nor a battered whitey silver dollar; but it was a bright round gold dollar, right out of the mint. Little Mary and little Susy could hardly sleep that night for thinking of what they could buy with those gold dollars.

"Early next morning they went down-town, hand in hand, to the store, and little Susy bought a bag of goober-peas, and sticks and sticks of striped candy, and a limber jack, and a gold ring, and a wax doll with a silk dress on that could open and shut its eyes—"

"Huh!" said the captious Cozy. "You can't buy a wax doll for a dollar. My littlest, littlest one cost three, and she didn't have a stitch to her back!"

"Shut up!" said Rickey briefly. "Dolls were cheaper then." She looked at the row of little negroes, goggle-eyed at the vision of such largesse. "What do you think little Mary did with her gold dollar? She loved dolls and candy, too, but she had heard about the pop-oor heathen. There was a tear in her eye, but she took the dollar home, and next day when she went to Sunday-school, she dropped it in the missionary-box."

"Little children, what do you reckon became of that dollar? It bought a big satchelful of tracts for a missionary. He had been a poor man with six children and a wife with a bone-felon on her right hand—not a child old enough to wash dishes and all of them young enough to fall in the fire—so he had to go and be a missionary. He was going to Alabama—to a cannibal island, and he took the tracts and sailed away in a ship that landed him on the shore. And when the heathen cannibals saw him they were v-e-e-ry glad, for there hadn't been any shipwrecked sailors for a long time, and they were v-e-e-ry hungry. So they tied up the missionary and gathered a lot of wood to make a fire and cook him.

"There He Goes!" He Said With Bitter Hatred.

"But it had rained and rained and rained for so long that the wood was all wet, and it wouldn't burn, and they all cried because they were so hungry. And then they happened to find the satchelful of tracts, and the tracts were v-e-e-ry dry. They took them and stuck them under the wet wood, and the tracts burned and the wood caught fire and they cooked the missionary and ate him.

"Now, little children, which do you think did the most good with her dollar—little Susy or little Mary?"

The front row sniggered, and a sigh came from the colored ranks. "Dem ar' can'bals," gasped a dusky infant breathlessly. "—dey done eat up all dat candy and dem goober-peas, too?"

The inquiry was drowned in a shriek from several children in unison. They scrambled to their feet, casting fearful glances over their shoulders. The man who had been lying behind the bush had risen and was coming toward them at a slouching amble, one foot dragging slightly. His appearance, indeed, was enough to cause panic. With his savage face, set now in a grin, and his tramp-like costume, he looked fierce and animal-like. White and black, the children fled like startled rabbits, older ones dragging younger, without a backward look—all save Rickey, who stood quite still, her widening eyes fixed on him in a kind of blanched fascinated terror.

He came close to her, never taking his eyes from hers, then put his heavy grimy hand under her chin and turned her twitching face upward, chuckling. "Ain't no fear, d—n me!" he said with admiration. "Wouldn't skeddaddle with th' fine folks' white-livered young uns! Know who I am, don't ye?"

"Greef King." Rickey's lips rather formed than spoke the name. "Right. An' I know you, too. Got jes' th' same look ez when ye wuzn't no high'n my knee. So ye ain't at th' Dome no mo', eh? Purkle an' fine linnin an' a eddication. Ho-ho! Goin' ter make ye another ladyess like the sweet ducky-dovey that recoosed ye from th' lovin' embrace o' yer fond step-parent, eh?"

Rickey's small arm went suddenly out and her fingers tore at his shirt-band. "Don't you," she burst in a paroxysm of passion; "don't you even speak her name! If you do, I'll kill you!"

So fierce was her leap that he fell back a step in sheer surprise. Then he laughed loudly. "Why, ye little spittin' wile-cat!" he grinned.

He leaned suddenly, gripped her wrist and covering her mouth tightly with his palm, dragged her behind a clump of dogwood bushes. A heavy step was coming along the wood-path. He held her motionless and breathless in this cruel grip till the pedestrian had passed. It was Major Bristow, his spruce white hat on the back of his head, his unsullied waistcoat dappled with the leaf-shadows. He stepped out briskly toward Damory court, swinging his stick, all unconscious of the fierce scrutiny bent on him from behind the dogwoods.

Greef King did not withdraw his hand till the steps had died in the distance. When he did, he clenched his fist and shook it in the air. "There he goes!" he said with bitter hatred. "Yer noble friend that sent me up for six years t' break my heart on th' rock-pile! Oh, he's a top-notch, he is! But he's got Greef King to reckon with yit!" He looked at her balefully and shook her.

"Look-a-ye-ye," he said in a hissing voice. "Ye remember me. I'm a bad one ter fool with. Yer maw foun' that out, I reckon. Now ye'll promise me ye'll tell nobody you've seen. I'm only a tramp; d'ye hear?" He shook her roughly.

Rickey's fingers and teeth were clenched hard and she said no word. He shook her again viciously, the blood pouring into his scarred face. "Ye snivelin' brat, ye!" he snarled. "I'll show yer!" He began to drag her after him through the bushes: A few yards and they were on the brink of the headlong ugly chasm of Lovers' Leap. She cast one desperate look about her and shut her eyes. Catching her about the waist he leaned over and held her out in mid-air, as if she had been a kitten. "Ye ain't seen me, hev yer? Promise, or over ye go. Ye won't look so pretty when ye're layin' down there on them rocks!"

The child's face was paper-white and she had begun to tremble like a leaf, but her eyes remained closed.

"One-two—" he counted deliberately.

Her eyes opened. She turned one shuddering glance below, then her resolution broke. She clutched his arm and broke into wild supplications. "I promise, I promise!" she cried. "Oh, don't let go! I promise!"

He set her on the solid ground and released her, looking at her with a sneering laugh. "Now we'll see of ye belong here or up ter Hell's-Half-Acre," he said. "Fine folks keeps their promises, I've heard tell."

Rickey looked at him a moment shaking; then she burst into a passion of sob and with her face averted ran from him like a deer through the bushes.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

A good kidney medicine, possessing real healing and curative value, should be a blessing to thousands of nervous, over-worked women.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., may receive a sample size bottle by Parcels Post. You can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottle at all drug stores.

Seymour People Give Credit Where Credit Is Due.

People of Seymour who suffer with weak kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. Doan's Kidney Pills is a medicine for the kidneys only, and one that is backed by willing testimony Seymour people. Here's a case:

Mrs. George Cozine, 24 Mill St., Seymour, Ind., says: "Disordered kidneys caused me much suffering, and I was in bad shape. When I began using Doan's Kidney Pills they rid me of the trouble, although other remedies had failed. I endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills when they cured me and at the present time I am glad to confirm my former statement."

Mrs. Cozine is only one of many Seymour people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches, if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Cozine had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores, Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Supreme Court Rules In the Bleached Flour Case.

PURE FOOD LAW INTERPRETED

Under This Ruling the Work of Enforcing Regulations Against Adulteration of Foodstuffs Will Be Increased by Necessity of Proving the Article in Question Actually Is Poisonous or Deleterious to Health.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Proposals to send to Mexico City a marine force of sufficient strength to enable the American embassy to dominate the situation in a military way as far as the legation guards of other nationalities are concerned, are receiving considerable attention. Naval officers are in favor of sending a force of 1,000 marines to Mexico City. In army circles there is a disposition to believe that either a force of 5,000 men should be sent or none at all.

Washington, Feb. 25.—On the enforcement of the federal food and drug act and similar state laws, a decision of the supreme court has a far-reaching effect. By many the fear is expressed that the decision will greatly handicap the federal authorities in their efforts to fight against "treated" or adulterated foods.

This decision was in what has come to be known as the "bleached flour" case. In an opinion by Justice Day, concurred in by the entire court, the principle was laid down that in order for the government to maintain a libel under the food and drugs act to condemn articles alleged to contain "added poisonous or deleterious substances," it is necessary to prove that the added substance is present in sufficient quantities that it may injure health.

The "bleached flour" case grew out of an attempt by the federal authorities to libel a shipment of flour made by the Lexington Milling and Elevator company from Lexington, Neb., to Castle, Mo. The flour was admittedly bleached by having been subjected to a treatment of nitrogen peroxide gas. The court found as a matter of fact that the added substance was poisonous and deleterious. The government asked the trial judge to charge the jury that it was only necessary for the government to prove that the shipment contained the added poisonous or deleterious substance in order to maintain the libel, and that they were not required to establish by proof that the adulteration was present in such quantities that it might injure the health of consumers. The judge gave this charge, but on appeal to the circuit court for the Eighth district the case was reversed on account of the judge's instruction, and from that decision the government appealed to the supreme court.

The outcome of the case has been awaited with the keenest interest by the government as well as by the manufacturers of foods and drugs that have been "treated" or adulterated.

Dr. Carl Alsberg, chief of the bureau of chemistry, who is the principal officer of the government charged with the administration of the food and drugs act, admitted that the decision so far as he understood it, would revolutionize the administration of the law. He said that he preferred to get the full text of the opinion before discussing it at length, but added that on the face of things it looked as if the work of enforcing the law would be increased tremendously by the decision, because the government apparently will have to prove in each case as a foundation for maintaining a libel that the article sought to be condemned is actually poisonous or deleterious to the public health.

DISAPPEARANCE OF BAUCH

This is Just Now the Big Puzzle of the Border.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 25.—The disappearance of Gustav Bauch is the big puzzle of the border. Imprisoned by Panch Villa on Monday of last week, reported executed then reported moved to Chihuahua but "ordered released on my personal orders," the German-American cannot be located.

He has a sister in El Paso who is certain that he would have come to her immediately if he had been released. The attitude of the rebel officials leads to the belief that Bauch has been executed. American Consul Edwards said that he believed Bauch to be alive in Chihuahua, but Consul Letcher at Chihuahua has been unable to find Bauch there.

Frozen to Death in Snowdrift. Wabash, Ind., Feb. 25.—Eli Beaman, aged seventy-five, was frozen to death within 300 feet of his home. He went to a barn to care for his stock. Tracks in the snow indicated that he reached the barn, and in returning to the house he lost his way and fell in a deep snowdrift. Search for him ended in the finding of his body.

There is not the slightest sign of trouble brewing in Mexico City, where Huerta seems to have the situation under full control.

New York, Feb. 25.—A forest sprang up in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor last night and on the green sward of a glade therein was revealed Percy Mackaye's bird masque, "Sanctuary" with Miss Eleanor Wilson, the president's youngest daughter, playing the leading woman's role, and her sister, Miss Margaret Wilson singing the prelude.

HOLDING COURT ON DESOLATE ISLAND

Strict Secrecy Surrounds Army Officer's Trial.

New London, Conn., Feb. 25.—Among the sand dunes of desolate little Plum Island, in the shabby old hall of a brick building, the trial of Major Benjamin Koehler, United States coast artillery, began this morning on charges arising out of immorality said to have existed at Fort Terry.

The trial will be secret if thirteen miles of blue water and more than double sentries can make it so. General Thomas H. Barry, commanding the department of the east, told newspaper men on the New London pier that he was sorry, but they would have to stay behind. General Barry's order is backed by Secretary of War Garrison. Owing to the grave nature of the charges the war department has been urged not to draw attention to the case by holding the trial in camera. The plea has so far been in vain.

"The case has got to be kept secret," said a high army officer. "The case against Major Koehler and any others that may come of it must be obscured as much as possible for the good of the service. That reason alone is sufficient to any army man, but if you insist on others—for the public good, in the interest of public morals."

There were sentries picketed all around the pier where the government transport General J. H. Brannan lay with steam up waiting for the members of the court martial to board. General Barry was followed by Colonel Henry F. Kirby of the Third infantry, who will preside over the trial. Then followed the remaining officers of the court.

DRIVER DIDN'T SEE TRAIN

Curtains of Buggy Were Closed and Three Die at Crossing.

Winamac, Ind., Feb. 25.—George Wilson, 25 years old; his wife, 18 years old, and baby son were killed instantly near Boone Grove, north of here, when their buggy was hit by an Erie mail train.

There was a blinding snowstorm raging and Wilson had side curtains up. He was unable to see the train.

Wilson's body was carried on the engine pilot to Crown Point, 20 miles distant, where the accident was discovered.

Wilson's mother, upon hearing of her son's death, was stricken with paralysis, and is near death.

BENTON'S BODY IS TO BE RETURNED

Villa Decides to Yield In Face of Storm.

THIS IMPROVES THE SITUATION

The State Department Is Now Prepared to Make a Much More Satisfactory Report to Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, Members of Which Were Beginning to Show Signs of Irritation.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The Mexican situation took a turn for the better when the state department received notification that the revolutionist authorities have decided to yield to the representations of the United States and deliver the body of Benton, the British ranchman who met death after an encounter with General Villa. This information came to the state department from George G. Carothers, a member of the consular service, now at El Paso.

This announcement relieved what had threatened to become a most acute situation between Washington and the Constitutionalists. It is believed that Villa and his associates were advised by the Washington agency of the Constitutionalists that they had better yield before the storm broke over their heads.

The British government, as indicated in further statements in parliament by Sir Edward Grey and in an hour's conference between Secretary Bryan and Ambassador Spring-Rice, attaches such vital importance to the recovery of Benton's body that the United States was fast becoming seriously obligated to make the recovery at almost any cost. It is confidently believed by the British authorities that examination of the body will disclose the manner in which Benton was killed and indicate the truth or falsity of Villa's explanation of the killing.

An attitude that could not long be tolerated by the United States, in view of the pressure exerted upon this government by Great Britain, was maintained by Villa and his subordinates up to the moment when word was received that the body would be given up.

It is stated that there is likely to be some delay in the exhumation of Benton's body as Villa intends to make further statement in that connection and will have the proceedings held up until he can return to Juarez from Chihuahua. The decision to yield, however, removes what might have become at any moment the critical feature of the case and the United States government will not be expected to take any action until the examination of the body has been completed and the conclusions reached as a result thereof reported to the state department.

The news was doubly welcome to Secretary of State Bryan, who will be in a position to report to the senate committee on the Benton case in a much more satisfactory light than would have been the case had Villa persisted in his refusal to give up the body. Mr. Bryan can also thus demonstrate to the senators that the United States is taking every possible step toward ascertaining all the facts in the Benton case and go far towards dispelling the impression maintained by senators that he was inclining toward an acceptance of the Villa accounts of Benton's death.

There is no doubt that the secretary will be extensively questioned by senators regarding the Mexican situation when he appears before the committee. A great restlessness has been apparent among the members of the committee ever since the Benton case developed and much dissatisfaction has been expressed at the failure of the state department to take the senate into its confidence on Mexican relations generally.

Arms and ammunition are being handed out to British subjects at the legation here. The compatriots of Benton are incensed at what they call the supine attitude of Washington regarding the rancher's death. The postoffice has placed on its blacklist a large number of American newspapers which have been taking an anti-Huerta attitude.

HUERTA GAINING SYMPATHY

British Residents in Mexican Capital Draw Comparisons.

Mexico City, Feb. 25.—A call to a meeting of members of the British club here for the purpose of drawing up a vigorous protest to the British foreign office regarding the death of Benton has been posted at the club-rooms. Nothing has happened in recent months which has so strengthened sympathy for General Huerta as the death of the British subject who was condemned by a Villa courtmartial. The foreign residents compare the safety which they enjoy in the parts of Mexico under federal control with the danger to life in rebel controlled districts.

Huerta papers are making capital out of the incident. They point out that the provisional president has granted every request made to him by Charge O'Shaughnessy for the release of Americans and has made every effort to protect the lives of foreigners.

Boston, Feb. 25.—James M. Curley, mayor of Boston, has announced his resignation of his seat in the congress. He said that he took the step as a result of the action of Minority Leader James R. Mann, who introduced a resolution in the congress proposing that Mr. Curley's seat be declared vacant.

ESCAPED PRISON BY REASON OF HIS AGE

Millionaire Pleads Guilty to Girl's Charge.

Cincinnati, Feb. 25.—In consequence of a recent warrant for his arrest, Colonel Brent Arnold, sixty-eight years old, millionaire clubman, leader in Cincinnati society circles and general freight agent and superintendent of terminals of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, appeared before Juvenile Judge Gorman and pleaded guilty of having contributed to the delinquency of seventeen-year-old Mildred Crane, who made charges against him and several other prominent Cincinnatians.

Because of his age, no imprisonment was given Colonel Arnold by Juvenile Judge Gorman, but a fine of $750 and costs was imposed.

Warrants also were issued for the arrest of Hugo Goldsmith, member of the firm of P. Goldsmith & Sons, sporting goods manufacturers; Isaac Newton Fox, traveling agent for the Fox Brothers & Co., jewelry dealers, and Charles B. House, traveling representative for a New York textile house with headquarters at Louisville.

These three men are said to be out of the city. Their counsel deny they are implicated in the charges made by the Crane girl. The arrest of Colonel Arnold came as a climax to a case that has rocked Cincinnati's society to its foundations.

Several social organizations had been actively engaged in co-operating with the juvenile court authorities in bringing the persons responsible for the young girl's condition to justice. In her signed confession written at the request of the court authorities a few days ago, the Crane girl made out a list of all those she claimed had been guilty of conduct which would warrant their arrest if her charges were true.
